Sisters and Brothers in Christ,

On St. Patrick's Day, after celebrating Claire's birthday with the kids and her parents, I received word that a friend and former co-worker had died.

You may not have known John, but he knew you. He participated in our services online regularly. He joined us online regularly. He last watched a service a week before he died, and afterward asked if I would go to Watertown, NY to do his funeral.

I spent a lot of time with John over five years at the Watertown Urban Mission. He also did a lot of work at our first home – from a bathroom renovation to the roof. He knew of my faith, and he spared no opinions, as he was a skeptic who didn't understand why I went to church and certainly why I was leaving for seminary in Princeton.

When COVID struck, I shared our first online service in Absecon on Facebook, which was done with just my phone. It was incredible how many bored homebound people tuned in to that first service when the world was shut down. I don't know if John was on that first Sunday, but he and others among my online "friends" became regular visitors to the feed there and are now here in Shelby.

You became his church community. In my last coherent conversation with him, he said, "I want you to know I believe." Yet, I already knew this, whether he knew it or not. I knew because John had been transformed at the Mission, going from a life of protecting everything that was his and drinking without regard for others – he came to the Mission after multiple DWIs in an alternative to incarceration program.

At the Mission, he became generous in service to the needs of others, without worrying about money, and he learned to love others first. He worked in the food pantry and maintenance. He welcomed all as friends, even strangers and those with whom he had past enmity. God had a hold of him, before he had a hold of God. Online church merely helped make the connection for him.

Beloved, I share this not only because I am grieving this loss, but because it demonstrates two things central to your mission and mine at SPC. First, God is at work in you and others, even before we know it. The second is to demonstrate that our presence online has an unseen value in the people we reach with God's love just by sharing the service on our newsfeeds.

In this season of Easter, I am happy to give witness to the resurrection, having seen its fruit in John and all of you. As we celebrate, be mindful of the places you see love and service for God's Kingdom, in and through others, even those who do not yet acknowledge God's love. And with that, take a chance – share our church services and events in your newsfeed. You never know who will be reached with God's love. This is an easy way to be a faithful presence in your circle.

– Drew

From the Desk of Carol Ann

When I was in the youth group back in the 80s, I remember taking a spiritual gift inventory with a paper booklet and answer sheet. We were encouraged to use these gifts for the good of the church and the kingdom of God. Spiritual gifts are viewed as abilities given by the Holy Spirit to believers for the purpose of building up the body of Christ, which is the church. These gifts are diverse, ranging from teaching, healing, to acts of mercy, among others. When we use our spiritual gifts, we help build and strengthen the body of Christ, and we help fulfill our role in that body by doing the things that we are well-equipped to do.

God also gifts us with talents. Our talents can help us to carry out our spiritual gifts, but they are different from spiritual gifts in most cases. For instance, you may have a talent for pickleball. Pickleball isn't a spiritual gift, but playing with a friend who is feeling down can help you use your gift of encouragement. Maybe you have a real talent for cooking, baking, or decorating. While none of these are spiritual gifts, they can help you exercise a gift of hospitality.

My question is: are you wasting your talent?

God gives us talents. There are a million different ways that this can be accomplished, but none of those ways will work if you neglect your talent. Maybe you are an organizer but someone criticized the way you did something once, so you quit trying to use your ability. Maybe you feel underappreciated or underachieving, so you mostly just leave your talent on the shelf. You are wasting what God has given you. Or maybe you have a talent of crocheting and some crazy person asked you to make 50 bunnies for the egg hunt. And you said yes. Thanks Gloria Jobe for using your talent to make all those bunnies while using your spiritual gift of serving!

There is no such thing as an inadequate gift from God. Whatever your talent, you can contribute in unique ways that complement the talents and abilities of others within the church community.

THE RAINBOW CONNECTION PRESCHOOL

March was another fun filled month at Rainbow Connection! We explored outside, celebrated Saint Patrick's Day, hunted leprechauns, created art, and talked about the changing weather. We are enjoying the warmer days, and all of the time outside this month.

This month we will talk about Easter, the real meaning behind Easter, and how Jesus died for each and every one of us. We will have Easter egg hunts, Easter parties, and create all kinds of art! We will also be collecting pancake mix for Feeding Kids Cleveland County through the month of April.

As always, we are incredibly thankful for the members and staff at SPC that consistently support us at Rainbow. We appreciate each and every one of you!

"He is not here; he has risen, just as he said.

Come and see the place where he lay."

FOOD MINISTRY UPDATE: I am so thankful for the privilege of seeing God at work in our SPC staff, members, volunteers, and guests when I participate in our Food Ministry.

No statistics this time, just stories:

We receive so many wonderful donations of food. We use as much as we can and distribute much of what we can't use to those who can. One ingredient that we have often wished for is cheese because we rarely get any. It would be a great addition to so many dishes. Imagine my surprise the day we received 2 (two) 42-pound blocks of cheese! Thanks to the hard-working kitchen volunteers that cheese was cut up and packaged so we could give some to our guests to take home and freeze the rest to cook with. What a busy morning! I have learned to be careful what I wish for.

SPC Reports & Minutes

SESSION MINUTES FEBRUARY 20, 2024

Communications

Clerk's Report - Margie Trivett has been faithfully preparing Communion for several years—since she was “Elder in charge.” Active Elders should be actively involved in preparation, as well as the serving, of Communion. Sign-up sheet was sent around and volunteers obtained for assisting Margie in preparation for the remaining Communion dates for 2024 (which are not “By Intinction”).

Pastor's Report - Minutes of Session meeting of January 16, 2024 and the Congregational Meeting of January 21, 2024 were unanimously approved on motion of Bill and second by Carolyn B.

On motion by John and second by Dan the online vote approving the submission of the 2023 Church Statistical Report to Presbytery was unanimously approved.

The 2023 report showed a slight decrease in membership to 404 active members, primarily due to cleaning up the membership rolls. Fifteen (15) new members were enrolled in 2023. Average worship attendance was 137 (exclusive of online viewership).

Finance Committee - Carolyn Jackson reported budgeted revenues were down for January, but pledged offerings were at 99.8%. Expenses were 9% below budget. Changing about 100 (of 400) fluorescent bulbs to LED has contributed to utilities being under budget.

Finance committee has authorized architect to proceed with plans and bids for kitchen renovation. Also, has asked Property committee to determine lowest, most responsible bid for sanctuary painting.

On motion by Bill and second by John, vote was unanimous to authorize Erin Borders to submit application to IRS for federal tax refund for moneys paid in for retained employees during COVID pandemic. We will likely not know for some time if application will even be considered (due to timeliness) or granted.

Music and Worship Committee- Have had discussions about updating sound system in sanctuary and about our online viewing. Strong support of Session members to have our broadcast or online service be, as nearly as possible, a replication of the in-person service.

On motion of Bill and second by John, the baptism of James Yerger, infant son of Jeff and Anna Langley Yerger, was approved for April 28, 2024.

Property Committee - Bill reported the new heat/air units for youth rooms, Parlor, and Conference rooms are to be installed in March. All porcelain tile floors and carpets have been cleaned.

Old Business - None

New Business - None

Action Items - Pastor Drew to notify Erin to proceed with Tax refund application.

- Clerk Larry to inform Margie Trivett of schedule of Elders who will be assisting her with Communion Preparation.

Closing - Motion to adjourn by Bill, seconded by John, closed with prayer by Steve.
